GUATEMALA ADOPTS QUETZAL, NEW COIN

Turns From Paper Money to Silver Coin.

Washington.-A new coin has made its appearance in the money-changing marts of the world. It is called the quetzal, and is the sliver standard of Guatemala. After 28 years of a paper money regime the Central American republic is now issuing silver money, to be followed shortly by gold coins, and smaller fractional ones of copper.

"A step forward in finance is in keeping with other developments of this most populous, and perhaps most richly endowed, of all the Central American countries," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Guatemala possesses the largest railroad mileage of any country between Mexico and South America, and, although figures vary from time to time, the value of its exports, well up in the millions, will be found each year ranking first or second among Central American countries.

Leadership Traditional.

"Guatemala's place near the front of the Central American procession is traditional. At the coming of the first Europeans the region was inhabited by the Maya-Quiche Indians, flerce fighters but among the most highly civilized peoples of their time. Their history reads like a romance and the remarkable ruins they have left indicate a widespread realm of power and influence. The Spanlards center of all of Central America and part of Mexico.

"After throwing off the Spanish yoke the country was for a time a part of the empire of Mexico, but in 1823 an independent nation was formed under the title of the Central American federation, embracing also the present Honduras, Salvador, Nicaragua and Costa Rica. One by one the states seceded and formed independent republics.

"Another unsuccessful attempt to unite several Central American countries was made in 1921. A treaty ratifled by Guatemala, Honduras and Salvador resulted in a federation known as the Republic of Central America, with Tegucigalpa, the capital of Honduras, the administrative seat. The new republic, however, was shortlived. Guatemala today continues in a sole role with the other nations of the world, although many co-operative agreements, especially in relation to international railroads, have been made between the members of this effervescent Latin-American family.

"Guatemala has an area about equal to that of the state of Louisiana and is the second largest of the Central American republics. As it is about midway between the United States and South America, and fronting both on the Caribbean and the Pacific, it occupies a strategic position, politically and economically.

There were 500,000 American automobiles exported last year. That simple fact opens up a big prospect for our automotive industry in the future.

HASKIN'S LETTER By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

American Legion Endowment.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 .- The dinner given in Washington by seven United States senators and 56 representatives who are veterans of the World War and members of the American Legion, and at which National Commander John R. McQuigg and past National Commanders James Drain, Hanford MacNider, and John Emory of the Legion were guests of honor, caused official Washington to take definite cognizance of the fact that as a powerful patriotic factor in American life, the Legion has decidedly "arrived."

From the young organization of eight years ago, making its first fight for the rights of the disabled men of the war, the Legion has developed in influence. It has also grown in wealth, having raised a five million dollar endowment fund, the largest money raising effort of the sort during 1925, while strictly nonpartisan in politics, the Legion's influence was dramatically displayed when the members of congress who are at the Capitol for the first time

TALLEY HAILED "SECOND PATTI"

Kansas City, Mo., Girl Scores Triumph in Grand Opera.

19 YEARS OLD

Sings Role of Gilda in "Rigoletto" at Metropolitan.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.-Under circumstances more dramatic than conceived by the writers of fiction, Miss Marion Talley, a 19-year-old girl of Kansas City, Mo., made her debut at the Metropolitan opera house last night, singing the role of Gilda in "Rigoletto." Today she is being hailed by critics as a "second Patti," the most gifted soprano in the world.

It was a tremendous triumph for little Marion, a chubby girl with round pink cheeks and blue eyes. Dressed in green velvet, she stood alone on the stage of the great temple of music before a crowd that packed the place to the exits, and sang with a beautiful voice of ample range and flexibility and without the slightest trace of nervousness. Her voice was clear and rich and sweet, rising, laughing, sob-

There, before her in the great audience, was her "dad," and her sister. Florence, and the several hundred "home folk" who came from Missouri on the "Marion Talley Special" to hear her sing. In the wings was her mother, tears of pride and happiness trickling down her cheeks.

Tumultous Applause.

Tumultous applause broke forth when Marion had finished her aria. She was called back repeatedly, being forced to respond to more than a dozen curtain calls. The modest little girl from the "show me" state had "shown" Broadway.

Society women bedecked with diamonds and millionaires in evening dress joined with the happy home folk from the west in shouting, "Bravo" and "Good, Marion."

Not even the riotous first nights of Enrico Caruso surpassed the reception given this little Missouri girl, the youngest American prima donna since 1859 when Adelina Patti sang Lucia at the old Academy of Music.

Police reserves had to be called out to handle the milling crowd that fought for a chance to buy tickets to hear Marion. More than 10,000 people battled in the streets in a vain at tempt to get into the opera house, and it was necessary to make several ar-rests. Nothing like it in the history of opening nights at the Metropolitan could be recalled by the management or by the police.

Scalpers sold tickets for as high as $100 apiece. Eight persons were arrested/for hawking tickets. The 3,700 tickets to the theater were sold out

Radio Heat for Homes Next Step for Science

Pittsburgh, Pa.-The broadcasting of heat by radio is only a matter of years, in the opinion of Prof. S. E. Dibble of Carnegie Institute of Technology, who, it became known, is making a study of the problem.

Mr. Dibble, president of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, and holder of the Abgens professorship in plumbing, heating and ventilating, believes "It is no more improbable to broadcast heat waves than it was to broadcast sound waves."

Sending heat to consumers via the air is now the problem of research men and laboratory workers, who must "discover instruments to control heat waves, especially a detector which will pick them up and hold and amplify them," says Professor Dibble.

Transmission of heat by atmospheric conductivity is essential because of the gradual exhaustion of the elements of fuel, said the professor, adding, "The day is not far off, in my opinion, when we will see huge cen tralized heating plants broadcasting heat to homes, industries and office buildings."

Rail Laying Machine Does Work of 24 Men

Harrisburg, Pa .-- A machine that lays from 60 to 85 steel rails in an hour and displaces a railroad gang of 25 men is at work on the Bethlehem branch of the Reading railway.

The machine, commercially known as the "Burro," is mounted on a standard gauge truck and is selfpropelling to a speed of 15 miles per bour. It is driven by a gasoline engine, which also operates the boom and cables. The crew consists of a craneman and three laborers.

Other features, except the rail laying, are identical with the ordinary hand methods. After the removal of the worn rail from the track all spike holes are plugged and new tie plates applied. The rail is put into place and the machine then proceeds over the rail just laid to the next open joint on the opposite side, after which the operation is repeated.

agricultural practicability is believed to have been reached in California. "Desert types of rubber plants are being grown in the lower valley of the Colorado river, and the possibilitles of one of the common milkweeds are being studied because it grows well on waste lands and produces a large quantity of rubber-bearing material readily and cheaply. Culti-ation might extend over large areas if ways of utilizing the substance were perfected.

"This plant is widely scattered in southern Arizona and the desert reglons of Senora and southern California, and it also grows in small ravines and gullles of barren hillsides a few miles from the coast of Lower California. Some of the plants grow so large that they form dense masses more than six feet high and ten feet across." Problem Is Complicated.

If any of the rubber-bearing species does show a willingness to produce rubber in the United States in worthwhile quantities, many economic problems would still have to be solved before rubber growing could be done on a commercial scale.

Para rubber, if that should be chosen, would not have the evan rainfall it has in the East Indies because Florida has distinct wet and dry seasons. With even rainfall rubber trees may be tapped the year around, but with an uneven one, tapping would have to needed and at others only a few. Even if that problem could be satisfactorily solved by secondary crops there would still be a labor problem. East Indian rubber planters can get cheaper labor than Florida or California planters can ever hope to get. Therefore some other means would have to be found to reduce the cost of preducing rubber in order to compete with England's East Indian product in price.

The research chemist would have to

In case one or more of the lesser known plants, were to be used, for which no method of extraction is now known, a brandnew method would have to be developed. On top of it all the chemists might come along any day with a cheap synthetic rubber that would stretch as far as the best of nature's

Business and Property

The General Sand and Supply Company, incorporated under the laws of Delaware, is a new organization. It acquired, by purchase, an eight-acre tract of Ohio River frontage at Wellsville, Ohio, upon which it is now completing the erection of a thoroughly modern and advanced type of Sand and Gravel Plant. This plant when completed will be the only one of its kind in the "Tri-State" District. It will be so equipped as to be in the unique position of being able to supply both sand and gravel at all times of the year in large quantities and in grades and qualities meeting with the most rigid demands of building specifications. The land and the plant thereon, when completed will be worth not less than $175,000. The business of supplying graded sand and gravel to the trade is one of an essential nature and the requirement for the company's commodity is constant. The extensive construction program in the territory which the company can profitably serve, demands quick delivery of both sand and gravel on building sites. Excellent transportation facilities are afforded by the fact that the Pennsylvania Railroad yards are alongside of the company plant at Wellsville from which railroad track spurs enter our property. This obviates loss of time in shipments and affords a ready car supply.

The proceeds from the sale of this Preferred Stock and Common Stock will be used to pay for the acquisition of the property and construction of the plant thereon now in the course of completion, and to provide additional working capital.

The sound value of the property and plant, upon completion, will be not less than one and one-half times the total par value of the Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding.

Earnings and Dividends

Based upon the minimum of contemplated sales (150,000 tons of sand and gravel per annum), after payment of operating costs, taxes and depreciation, the net earnings of the company, applicable to the payment of Preferred Stock dividends, should be approximately four times the requirement for this class of stock to be presently outstanding. The surplus available for Common Stock dividends or the creation of contingent funds should amount to about 20% per annum, calculated upon the present sale price of the common stock.

The management of the company is in charge of men long familiar with the operation and sales of the sand and gravel business as well as the general contracting business. Their knowledge of the operation of the plant enables them to effect such economy as is consistent with practical and efficient as well as profitable management. Competent general management and supervision is assured through control by GENERAL CONTRACTING COR-PORATION, of which Mr. B. B. Byers is President and General Manager.

INSECTS STAR AS MOVIE ARTISTS

Films of Plant Pests Rival Screen Thrillers Made by Humans.

Washington. - When Uncle Sam wants to stage an agricultural movie thriller he selects a nasty insect for a villain and puts the pest through rehearsal. Some of the pests are natural movie actors; others are as temperamental as any Hollywood star. The primary reason for this, Department of Agriculture officials explain, is that certain insects shun light, whereas others exult in the glare of the studio Kleigs.

Consider the case of the common clothes moth. The department desired to make a picture showing the destructive habits of this pest, but the insects refused to work under the bright studio lights. Moths placed on an article of clothing flew so rapidly into a seam of goods that the closeups were a failure. The camera man then hit upon the novel idea of chloroforming the insects to retard their speed, and the picture was a success.

Cotton boll weevils, on the other hand, perform best under the intense lights. They are regarded as star actors, only close-ups seeming to satisfy the vanity of the pest. Not content with flying close to the lens, the boll weevils fly into the machine so that it is necessary every now and then to stop cranking in order to clean out the camera.

Bees Are Hard Subjects.

Honey bees are catalogued as bad actors. In the midst of a picture one day last summer the bees descended en masse upon the unprotected camera man, who fled and hid in a cellar. The picture could be completed only by erecting a canvas shelter over the camera so as to make

More than 20 motion pictures featuring insects in star roles have been made by the Department of Agriculstroys cotton, the Mexican bean beetle, the European corn borer, stable fly, bedbug, poultry louse, cockroach, grasshopper and others. The pictures are distributed free to agricultural camera and powdering the rats' noses colleges, county agents, and other agricultural agencies, some of the reels being exhibited all over the world.

Recently the department camera men made a special trip to Grasshopagainst the precipitous wails, the cler and becoming frozen in the ice.

Grasshoppers hundreds of years old, but not unlike the grasshoppers of the present day, have been found there, perfectly preserved. The melted ice at the end of the glacler deposits the grasshoppers on both banks, tons of movie apparatus, such as slow motion the insects having been piled up in this way. #### Working Far Afield.

Federal quarantines on pests, such as the European corn borer and the Japanese beetle, are strict and the department camera men are prohibited from bringing them into the District of Columbia so as to work on them in the studio. This results in considerable expense, in that the movie force must sometimes go far afield to take ctures of the insects in their natural environment.

The expense is, however, justified. say the department movie men, who point out that it is much better to take authentic pictures than to "fake" insects in the laboratory. Faked insects are used occasionally, but only in animated cartoons. An amusing incident in this connection was the construction of a mechanical reproduction of a Mexican bean beetle, so lifelike that it fooled even the department entomologists, who thought it real.

The occasion for this deception was the building of an outline map on which it was desired to show graphically the spread of the pest since its introduction into the United States. The habits of the heetle were studied carefully by the movie men, and an imitation was made that bore a lifelike resemblance to the original. It was made to crawl around the map at will, and the entomologists wanted to know how the photographers had contrived so perfectly to train the in-

Bedbugs, like the clothes moth, refuse to act under the glare of the studio lights, or even in ordinary daylight. In order to make them perform It was necessary to build a miniature bed in which a ferret wearing a nightgown was placed. The ferret had to be chloroformed to insure its remaining stationary, and the bugs, scenting easy prey, readily came out for a feast, despite the bright lights. Making Up the Rat.

End of Home Life

in Fifty Years Seen Liverpool. - That 50 years hence home life will have disappeared and people will virtually live in restaurants and hotels, is the prediction of Prof. A. M. Low, well known as a scientist. The professor prophesies that in 1976 present-day types of ships will be replaced by giant hydroplanes which will skim along the surface of the water at tremendous speed. Passengers wishing to cross the Atlantic will use airplanes and keep in touch with their homes by wire-

Regarding clothes, the professor is of the belief that 50 years from now cotton, silk and wool textiles will be replaced by more cheaper and more durable forms of vegetable fiber. The wardrobes of women will not be so large as now "because woman being by that time the most civilized will not be swayed by every passing wave of fashion."

Professor Low also envisages an era of ugly factories built underground. There will be no more chimneys belching forth smoke, and factory hands will be more polished and better educated as all the rough work of then will be done by machinery.

Plans to Blow Coal

From Mines to Mills Pittsburg, Kan.—Coal, pulverized at the mines here and blown to Kansas City through pipe lines for fuel for steel mills and other industrial purposes, is the prediction made by Ira Clemens, one of the leading coal operators of this field.

Clemens estimates that from the un claimed coal lands in this district there is sufficient to produce 400,000 ons annually, which will last for more than half a century. He also has visions of gas plants built to generate gas from the coal and by a redistilling process make gasoline from it. Coal hauled by trucks from here to the nearby large cities will be seen in a few years, he states, and predicts a

Gas Danger Forces Defiant Tenants Out

London.-The courts have upheld the government in its efforts to dispossess the tenants of 16 houses adjoining a factory at St. Helen's, Lancashire, in which the war office is conducting experiments with poison gas. The government owns both factory and houses and wanted the tenants to move because of danger to which it was believed they were exposed by proximity of the gas factory.

The tenants, however, were willing o assume the risk because of anticicated difficulty in finding other acommodations. The courts held that he government was not bound by the ent restriction act, under which prirate owners would have been unable o dispossess the tenants.

To aid rapid construction in the house-shortage district, Italy will appropriate $20,000,000 to assist builders.

Great Britain Plans To Tax Bets Laid On Track Racing

LONDON .- A tax on betting is emphatically foreshadowed in the forthcoming budget. Three Treasury experts have just been studying the question in several European capitals and their opinion is that the tax is easly collectable and should prove remunerative, with $25,-000,000 in the first year in their estimate of its yield.

The proposal is that the tax should be limited to bookmakers' credit accounts, and to bets actually made on race-courses. No attempt will be employed.

Harry Myers Draws Unconditional Release From St. Louis

Harry "Dutch" Myers, the last contribution of the East Liverpool sandlots to major league baseball, has been given his unconditional release from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Myers, who is wintering on his farm in Kensington, following a season with Syracuse in the International circuit, today announced the receipt of the information from the Cardinal club officials which leaves him free to seek out whatever baseball field he desires to operate in. Myers is

Either by train or by motor, the famous outfielder will leave today for Toledo where he will confer with Manager Casey Stengel of the American Association Mudhens. If Stengel, the former Giant star, talks convincingly to Myers, the latter may decide to hook up with the Toledoans for the season.

A telegram last night reached Myers from Hank Gowdy, erstwhile Giants' catcher, and now manager of the Columbus club of the association, asserting that the Senators would be pleased to consider Myers as a prospective member of the club for the coming campaign and asking him to submit terms. This Myers probably will not do until after his conference with Stengel.

Myers is far from being done as a baseball player. With the experience of a decade or more on the diamond, he should be able to fit in with any of the association or minor league teams and possibly the big time clubs in various positions not requiring the winners, Ward for the losers.

Flying Eagles five, of this city, defeated the Uniques, 18-17, last night on the M. E. court at Wellsville. F. Lincoln and Fountaine starred for the winners, Ward for the losers.

Myers spent the major portion of his big league career with the Brook- ton 2. lyn Dodgers. Leaving the Robinson outfit several years after playing in the world's series with Cleveland, Myers went to St. Louis Cardinals in a trade that sent Jacques Fournier, first baseman, to Brooklyn.

On May 30 last year, he took charge, as manager, of the Syracuse club of the International loop. His club finished sixth in the race. This year he was succeeded as pilot of the eastern team by Bert Shotten, former O. & P. league performer. Shotten, it will be recalled by East Liverpool fans, played with McKeesport and Steubenville on different occa sions, spearing hard hit balls at the old West End lot, now Patterson Field.

Myers before the end of the week, probably will have a definite line on what he expects to do this summer but, in any respect, it is not likely that he will be wanting for a good berth somewhere.

FRENCH TENNIS STARS PROTEST

Dissatisfied With Schedule for Indoor Title Tourney.

By Davis J. Walsh.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 .-- A week of acrimonious relations between leading players and officials in charge of the national indoor tennis championships came to a head today when the entire program for this afternoon was re vised without notice. Originally, William T. Tilden, Philadelphia, and Jean Borotra, France, the national indoor and outdoor champions respectively were to have met in what promised to be the biggest match of the tourna-

But Borotra, highly dissatisfied with tournament conditions throughout the week, declined to be a party to the transaction, claiming that he had in-dulged in four hard matches since Monday and believed that he was entitled to a rest. He wants to meet Tilden tomorrow but the officials, who have been juggling schedules all week like a stage magician, had other plans and most of them centered on the turnstiles.

They had intended to lull the customer today with the Tilden-Borotra fifth round match and repeat the operation tomorrow when a meeting be tween Vincent Richards and Rene Lacoste. That this latter also was a tifth round match apparently was of no importance. The turnstiles must click with due regularity or the boys could feel that their time had been

It also seems to be of no particular consequence that John Van Ryn, Princeton student, already is in the semi-finals while the six other sur vivors have yet to play their fifth round matches. John, of course, is only a minor incident and must take matters as they come. They made him play two matches yesterday while Lacoste, Brugnon, Borotra, Rica ards and Hunter were playing once and Tilden not at all. The latter didn't even appear in the doubles yesterday. The invading French were up in arms today about the situation. Borotra, electing himself spokesman for the team, declared that the French had been treated with an utter lack of consideration and intimated that never again would they play in the ndoor championships unless there was a decided turn for the better.

Find Out What Is Wrong When Efficiency Is Low

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., United States Senator from New York,

THERE are examples without number of men and women who accomplish great things in spite of ill-health. The Brooklyn Bridge was constructed under the direction of a bed-ridden engineer. "A step forward in finance is in keeping with other developments of this most populous, and perhaps most richly endowed, of all the Central American countries," says a bulletin from the Washington headquarters of the National Geographic society. "Guatemala possesses the largest railroad mileage of any country between Mexico and South America, and, although figures vary from time to time, the value of its exports, well up in the millions, will be found each year ranking first or second among Central American countries.

HASKIN'S LETTER By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

American Legion Endowment. WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 .- The dinner given in Washington by seven United States senators and 56 representatives who are veterans of the World War and members of the American Legion, and at which National Commander John R. McQuigg and past National Commanders James Drain, Hanford MacNider, and John Emory of the Legion were guests of honor, caused official Washington to take definite cognizance of the fact that as a powerful patriotic factor in American life, the Legion has decidedly "arrived."

From the young organization of eight years ago, making its first fight for the rights of the disabled men of the war, the Legion has developed in influence. It has also grown in wealth, having raised a five million dollar endowment fund, the largest money raising effort of the sort during 1925, while strictly non partisan in politics, the Legion's influence was dramatically displayed when the members of congress who the 69th congress and many of the are at the Capitol for the first time

Kansas City, Mo., Girl Scores Triumph in Grand Opera.

19 YEARS OLD

Metropolitan.

BY JAMES L. KILGALLEN.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.-Under circumstances more dramatic than conceived by the writers of fiction, Miss Marion Talley, a 19-year-old girl of Kansas City, Mo., made her debut at the Metropolitan opera house last night, singing the role of Gilda in "Rigoletto." Today she is being hailed by critics as a "second Patti," the most gifted soprano in the world.

It was a tremendous triumph for little Marion, a chubby girl with round pink cheeks and blue eyes. Dressed in green velvet, she stood alone on the stage of the great temple of music before a crowd that packed the place to the exits, and sang with a beautiful voice of ample range and flexibility and without the slightest trace of nervousness. Her voice was clear and rich and sweet, rising, laughing, sob-

There, before her in the great audience, was her "dad," and her sister. Florence, and the several hundred "home folk" who came from Missour on the "Marion Talley Special" to hear her sing. In the wings was her mother, tears of pride and happiness trickling down her cheeks.

Tumultous Applause. Tumultous applause broke forth when Marion had finished her aria. She was called back repeatedly, being forced to respond to more than a dozen curtain calls. The modest little girl from the "show me" state had

Not even the riotous first nights of Enrico Caruso surpassed the recep tion given this little Missouri girl, the youngest American prima donna since 1859 when Adelina Patti sang Lucia at the old Academy of Music.

Police reserves had to be called out to handle the milling crowd that fought for a chance to buy tickets to hear Marion. More than 10,000 people battled in the streets in a vain at tempt to get into the opera house, and it was necessary to make several arrests. Nothing like it in the history of opening nights at the Metropolitan could be recalled by the management or by the police.

Scalpers sold tickets for as high as $100 apiece. Eight persons were arrested/for hawking tickets. The 3,700 tickets to the theater were sold out

The final touch of romance was given to the unusual event when the girl's father, a telegraph operator who got a leave of absence from the Missouri Pacific railroad at Kansas City to come and hear his daughter sing, was invited back of the scenes to "send" a news story to the press re counting the achievement of his now famous daughter.

Radio Heat for Homes Next Step for Science day.

Pittsburgh, Pa.-The broadcasting of heat by radio is only a matter of years, in the opinion of Prof. S. E. Dibble of Carnegie Institute of Technology, who, it became known, is making a study of the problem. Mr. Dibble, president of the American Society of Heating and Ventilating Engineers, and holder of the Abgens professorship in plumbing, heating and ventilating, believes "It is no more improbable to broadcast heat waves than it was to broadcast sound waves."

Sending heat to consumers via the air is now the problem of research men and laboratory workers, who must "discover instruments to control heat waves, especially a detector which will pick them up and hold and amplify them," says Professor Dibble.

Transmission of heat by atmospheric conductivity is essential because of the gradual exhaustion of the elements of fuel, said the professor, adding, "The day is not far off, in my opinion, when we will see huge cen tralized heating plants broadcasting heat to homes, industries and office buildings."

Rail Laying Machine

Does Work of 24 Men Harrisburg, Pa .-- A machine that lays from 60 to 85 steel rails in an hour and displaces a railroad gang of 25 men is at work on the Bethlehem branch of the Reading railway.

The machine, commercially known as the "Burro," is mounted on a standard gauge truck and is seifpropelling to a speed of 15 miles per hour. It is driven by a gasoline engine, which also operates the boom and cables. The crew consists of a craneman and three laborers.

Other features, except the rail layng, are identical with the ordinary hand methods. After the removal of the worn rail from the track all spike holes are plugged and new tie plates applied. The rail is put into place and the machine then proceeds over the rail just laid to the next open joint on the opposite side, after which the operation is repeated.

Business and Property

The General Sand and Supply Company, incorporated under the laws of Delaware, is a new organization. It acquired, by purchase, an eight-acre tract of Ohio River frontage at Wellsville, Ohio, upon which it is now completing the erection of a thoroughly modern and advanced type of Sand and Gravel Plant. This plant when completed will be the only one of its kind in the "Tri-State" District. It will be so equipped as to be in the unique position of being able to supply both sand and gravel at all times of the year in large quantities and in grades and qualities meeting with the most rigid demands of building specifications. The and and the plant thereon, when completed will be worth not less than $175,000. The business of supplying graded sand and gravel to the trade is one of an essential nature and the requirement for the company's commodity is constant. The extensive construction program in the territory which the company can profitably serve, demands quick delivery of both sand and gravel on building sites. Excellent transportation facilities are afforded by the fact that the Pennsylvania Railroad yards are alongside of the company plant at Wellsville from which railroad track spurs enter our property. This obviates loss of time in shipments and affords he proceeds from the sale of this Preferred Stock and Common Stock will be used to pay for the acquisition of the property and construction of the plant thereon now in the course of completion, and to provide additional working capital.

The sound value of the property and plant, upon completion, will be not less than one and one-half times the total par value of the Preferred Stock to be presently outstanding. Earnings and Dividends Based upon the minimum of contemplated sales (150,000 tons of sand and gravel per annum), after payment of operating costs, taxes and depreciation, the net earnings of the company, applicable to the payment of Preferred Stock dividends, should be approximately four times the requirement for this class of stock to be presently outstanding. The surplus available for Common Stock dividends or the creation of contingent funds should amount to about 20% per annum, calculated upon the present sale price of the common stock. Management The management of the company is in charge of men long familiar with the operation and sales of the sand and gravel business as well as the general contracting business.

Their knowledge of the operation of the plant enables them to effect such economy as is consistent with practical and efficient as well as profitable management. Competent general management and supervision is assured through control by GENERAL CONTRACTING COR-

INSECTS STAR AS MOVIE ARTISTS

Films of Plant Pests Rival Screen Thrillers Made by Humans.

Washington. -- When Uncle Sam wants to stage an agricultural movie thriller he selects a nasty insect for a villain and puts the pest through rehearsal. Some of the pests are natural movie actors: others are as temperamental as any Hollywood star. The primary reason for this, Department of Agriculture officials explain, Is that certain insects shun light, whereas others exult in the glare of the studio Kleigs.

Consider the case of the common clothes moth. The department desired to make a picture showing the destructive habits of this pest, but the insects refused to work under the bright studio lights. Moths placed on an article of clothing flew so rapidly into a seam of goods that the closeups were a fallure. The camera man then hit upon the novel idea of chloroforming the insects to retard their speed, and the picture was a success.

Cotton boll weevils, on the other hand, perform best under the intense lights. They are regarded as star actors, only close-ups seeming to satisfy the vanity of the pest. Not content with flying close to the lens, the boll weevils fly into the machine so that it is necessary every now and then to stop cranking in order to clean out

Bees Are Hard Subjects.

Working Far Afield.

Federal quarantines on pests, such as the European corn borer and the Japanese beetle, are strict and the department camera men are prohibited from bringing them into the District of Columbia so as to work on them in the studio. This results in considerable expense, in that the movie force must sometimes go far afield to take tctures of the insects in their natural

The expense is, however, justified. say the department movie men, who point out that it is much better to take authentic pictures than to "fake" insects in the laboratory. Faked insects are used occasionally, but only in animated cartoons. An amusing incident in this connection was the construction of a mechanical reproduction of a Mexican bean beetle, so lifelike that it fooled even the department entomologists, who thought it real.

The occasion for this deception was the building of an outline map on which it was desired to show graphically the spread of the pest since its introduction into the United States. The habits of the heetle were studied carefully by the movie men, and an imitation was made that bore a lifelike resemblance to the original. It was made to crawl around the map at will, and the entomologists wanted to know how the photographers had contrived so perfectly to train the in-

Bedbugs, like the clothes moth, refuse to act under the glare of the studio lights, or even in ordinary daylight. In order to make them perform it was necessary to build a miniature bed in which a ferret wearing a nightgown was placed. The ferret had to be chloroformed to insure its remaining stationary, and the bugs, scenting easy prey, readily came out for a feast, despite the bright lights.

Confronted, however, with competition from commercial films, the camera men must make their pictures interesting as well as informative -a combination that is accomplished by weaving the educational material into an orthodox movie plot.

The department's success in doing this has been such that many of the big city circuits of exhibitors show the films on their programs and thus get the department's message over to a large urban public as well as to rural people. Over 200 pictures have been made by the department.

A few of the titles of the films will readily indicate the imagination of those competing with the commercial thriller. They are: "Clean Herds-and Hearts," "Out of the Shadows," "The Golden Flower," "The Charge of the Tick Brigade." "She's Wild," "Cloud-Busting," "There's Magic in It," "Weighed in the Balance." The films have been held by leading critics to be the best type of educational pictures ever produced.-New York Times.

Regarding clothes, the professor is of the belief that 50 years from now cotton, silk and wool textiles will be replaced by more cheaper and more durable forms of vegetable fiber. #### Plans to Blow Coal From Mines to Mills

Pittsburg, Kan.—Coal, pulverized at the mines here and blown to Kansas City through pipe lines for fuel for steel mills and other industrial purposes, is the prediction made by Ira Clemens, one of the leading coal operators of this field.

Clemens estimates that from the unclaimed coal lands in this district there is sufficient to produce 400,000 tons annually, which will last for more than half a century. He also has visions of gas plants built to generate gas from the coal and by a redistilling process make gasoline from it. Coal hauled by trucks from here to the nearby large cities will be seen in a few years, he states, and predicts a

Gas Danger Forces Defiant Tenants Out

London.-The courts have upheld the government in its efforts to dispossess the tenants of 16 houses adjoining a factory at St. Helen's, Lancashire, in which the war office is conducting experiments with poison gas. The government owns both factory and houses and wanted the tenants to move because of danger to which it was believed they were exposed by proximity of the gas factory.

The tenants, however, were willing o assume the risk because of anticipated difficulty in finding other accommodations. The courts held that he government was not bound by the ent restriction act, under which prirate owners would bave been unable o dispossess the tenants.

Harry Myers Draws Unconditional Release From St. Louis

Will Confer Today With Casey Stengel, Toledo Club Pilot

Succeeded as Manager of Syracuse Club of International League by Bert Shotten, Former O. & P. Loop Player, "Du tch" is Left Free Agent; Is Asked to Submit Terms for Place With Co-

Harry "Dutch" Myers, the last contribution of the East Liverpool sandlots to major league baseball, has been given his unconditional release from the St. Louis Cardinals.

Myers, who is wintering on his farm in Kensington, following a season with Syracuse in the International circuit, today announced the receipt of the information from the Cardinal club officials which leaves him free to seek out whatever baseball field he desires to operate in. Myers is a 10-year man.

Either by train or by motor, the famous outfielder will leave today for Toledo where he will confer with Manager Casey Stengel of the American Association Mudhens. If Stengel, the former Giant star, talks convincingly to Myers, the latter may decide to hook up with the Toledoans for the season.

A telegram last night reached Myers from Hank Gowdy, erstwhile Giants' catcher, and now manager of the Columbus club of the association, asserting that the Senators would be pleased to consider Myers as a prospective member of the club for the coming campaign and asking him to submit terms. This Myers probably will not do until after his conference with Stengel.

Myers is far from being done as a baseball player. With the experience of a decade or more on the diamond. he should be able to fit in with any of the association or minor league teams | Lincoln and Fountaine starred for the and possibly the big time clubs in various positions not requiring the snap, speed and enthusiasm of youth. In the heydey of his career, Myers knew no peer as an outfielder and he Jackson could slug with the rest of them, leading the Heydler circuit for a season or so in three baggers and in other ways distinguishing himself. Myers spent the major portion of his big league career with the Brooklyn Dodgers. Leaving the Robinson outfit several years after playing in the world's series with Cleveland, Myers went to St. Louis Cardinals in a trade that sent Jacques Fournier, first baseman, to Brooklyn.

On May 30 last year, he took charge. as manager, of the Syracuse club of the International loop. His club finished sixth in the race. This year he was succeeded as pilot of the eastern team by Bert Shotten, former O. & P. league performer. Shotten, it will be recalled by East Liverpool fans, played with McKeesport and Steubenville on different occasions, spearing hard hit balls at the old West End lot, now Patterson Field.

Myers before the end of the week, probably will have a definite line on what he expects to do this summer, but, in any respect, it is not likely that he will be wanting for a good

FRENCH TENNIS STARS PROTEST

Dissatisfied With Schedule for Indoor Title Tourney.

By Davis J. Walsh. NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—A week of acrimonious relations between leading players and officials in charge of the national indoor tennis championships came to a head today when the entire program for this afternoon was re vised without notice. Originally, Wil-

Helen to Face Both Next Match at Nice

Papa Lenglen Disappointed Over Champion's Showing at Cannes and so Next Time He'll be Sitting on Sidelines Directing Her Play; Advised Against Last Match.

BEAULIEU, Feb. 18.—Helen Wills' next big match will be with the Lenglens—Pere and Suzanne—according to the experts here today. Papa Lenglen will be almost as big a factor in the next meeting between the two women aces, as Suzanne, the experts believe.

Rumors are flying thick and fast that Pere Lenglen is sadly disappointed over the showing Suzanne made on Tuesday at Cannes, and that he had feared that she would not play her best for the simple reason that he could not be on the side-lines to watch and direct her play. The next meeting between Suzanne and Helen is have his place in the sun on the sidelines and is convinced that Suzanne will make a better showing than in the last match. Pere Lenglen has been the mentor of Suzanne's tennis career, and his influence over her play is most uncanny. There are those who declare that Suzanne seems to play in a trance, hypnotized by her father's critical eye and influenced by the thought waves that he sends out. At any rate none can deny that M.
